MEMBERS ONLY

October is upon us.
The Victoria School Gardens remain full of colour and texture. Our beehive and “the girls” are gone for the winter, but we look forward to offering up jars of “Museum Honey” in our gift shop soon (great stocking stuffers!) Thanks again to Matos Apiary for sharing their bees and teaching us all about honey production this summer.

The Museum is open with limited hours. PLEASE call before you visit to check that we’re open, or better still, make an appointment if you’d like to visit or do some research.

The restoration of the windows on the south side of the building is well underway. Thank you to the Town of Carleton Place, and to you, our membership, for all the support.

MEMBERS ONLY TOUR OF MONTAGUE FARM MUSEUM!

Montague Farm Museum is no ordinary museum; it's an historical glimpse at the journey agriculture has taken from the 1800s to today, and holds the best-of-the-best of antique farming tools, implements and paraphernalia.

Housed in heritage barns , the collection includes antiques focused on food and agriculture and hand-made artifacts and textiles from the 1800 and 1900s. From early fishing to early farming in the Ottawa Valley, Montague Farm Museum has a prime collection that highlights how far agriculture has come!

It was in 1967 during Canada's Centennial year that Lanark County farmer, politician and antique collector, Bill Dobson's passion for antiques was ignited, out of an interest in preserving Canadian artifacts, and specifically the Ottawa Valley's material heritage that he felt was rapidly being lost. A farmer for most of his life, turning to agricultural history was natural and once he got started, he found he had kindled a passion for antiques and history for which there is no end in sight.

You are invited to join us on a private tour of Bill Dobson's Montague Farm Museum on Sunday October 23.

VIRTUAL MUSEUM PROJECT

Over the last few years, the Museum has been working with undergraduate students in Carleton University's History & Theory of Architecture program as they create an online Virtual Museum of Architecture. The town of Carleton Place, as they describe it, "has a colourful history that includes royal visits, intrepid industry, and sordid squalor. These stories are told by the town's heritage architecture."

We've worked with the students on researching different buildings in town for their project, and it's time to make it public! Please register to join Heritage Ottawa's "Our Emerging Scholars Present" event. This will be the public launch of the first iteration of that student project. It will include several short presentations by Carleton students, highlighting some of the most lively stories that the architecture of Carleton Place has to tell. Supervising faculty from Carleton will introduce the project, and Museum Curator Jennifer Irwin will talk about the benefits of this collaboration.

The fascinating and storied historic architecture of Carleton Place is a well-kept secret, but this evening we will pull back the curtain!
